In 1978 when the Community Foundation was born, Northern Virginia was a loose collection of a few counties, cities and towns known mostly for their proximity to Washington DC.

There were people here, of course, but not many with intergenerational roots and a deep connection to home and place. But that has changed. It changed because many of us began to feel like this was home, a place where we belong. We may have come for the job, but we stayed for the life. We started to turn to one another for friendship and encouragement. And we started to help those among us who needed it the most, because we are only a community when we care for one another.

This year the Community Foundation celebrated its 40th anniversary. Over the course of 2018, we honored and paid tribute to numerous men and women who helped build our organization over the years, including 250+ former board members and thousands of donors of every stripe. Every friend and donor has made a huge difference. Since its inception, the Community Foundation has awarded more than $50 million dollars in grants and scholarships. And more recently we have emerged as a civic and social leader as well that helps this community define, and then act on, the biggest challenges we face and the greatest opportunities we have.

At the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia, we think about tomorrow. We are playing the long game and completely throwing ourselves into this place. We are excited about the future and optimistic about our chances. There is no doubt that 40 years from now, 140 years from now, the Community Foundation will still be here, responding to need, seeding innovation, leading and convening the community, and helping to build this beloved place that we, our children, and our children’s children, call home.

When Tysons Corner was little more than parking lots, gas stations, and farms, the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia was born.

A former insurance agent named Maynard DeWitt came to Washington in 1954 after being discharged from the Army. DeWitt was dedicated to growing philanthropy and making a difference, and so he launched the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia in 1978 along with Florence Townsend, Paul Lanzillotta, and Jim Wordsworth.

Maintaining and growing the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia took years of hard work, perseverance, and the generosity of key early supporters and donors.

For more than a decade, its physical location shifted from board member office to board member office. It then moved into Booz Allen Hamilton's Tysons Corner headquarters where it settled for 18 years. Six years ago it moved to its existing offices in Oakton, Virginia.

Today the Community Foundation is governed by a diverse board of twenty-one private sector leaders and donors. It has 9 staff members, more than 1,000 donors, over 100 volunteers, and a continuously growing level of grants and scholarships that are awarded each year.

We define our role broadly in the community. We are grant makers, supporting the region's most critical needs. We are seeders of innovative social solutions. And we are community leaders that help educate, inspire, and strengthen the entire region.

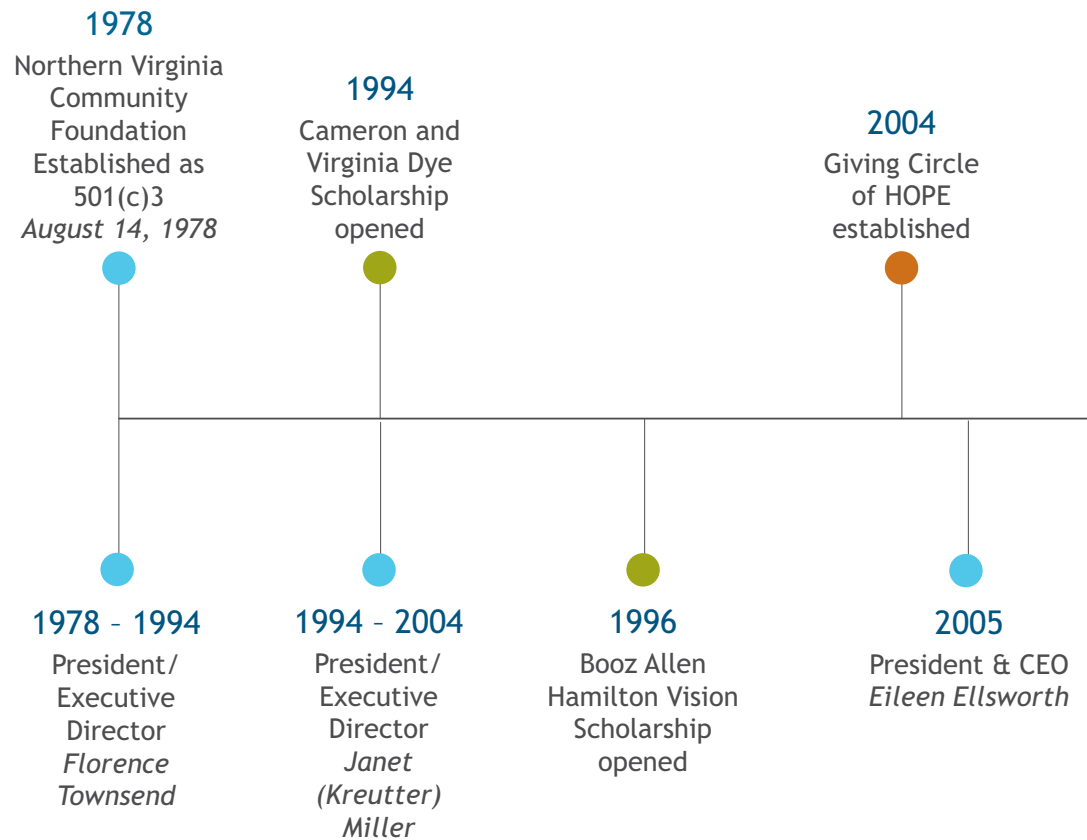

"I have been involved with the Community Foundation since the beginning 40 years ago and I am so happy to see how far we have come. We really wanted to make a difference in Northern Virginia. Now it partners with more than 200 donor advisors to grow local philanthropy, helps hundreds of students in our region afford a college education, sustains countless nonprofit organizations doing critical work for our neediest neighbors, and has become a cornerstone of our community. I know the future of the region I call home is stronger with the Community Foundation forever working to make it a better place for all of us."

“The Community Foundation’s broad aperture sees more widely than we ever could as individuals. It is able to identify both critical needs in the Northern Virginia community as well as organizations working effectively to meet those needs. Our donation to the Permanent Fund allows us to help ensure all those living in this diverse, vibrant community have the tools and services necessary to thrive.”

– Cheryl Janey and Michael Calhoun, The Janey Calhoun Family Legacy Fund, a component fund of The Permanent Fund for Northern Virginia

THE PERMANENT FUND FOR NORTHERN VIRGINIA

In honor of its 40th anniversary, the Community Foundation launched a significant planned giving campaign in October of 2017 to help grow The Permanent Fund for Northern Virginia, a permanent community endowment that will help shape the future of the region. This forever source of flexible philanthropic capital will enable the Board and staff of the Community Foundation to respond to critical needs of the region as they evolve over time, seed innovative solutions to persistent social issues, and strengthen the ties that bind in our community for decades if not centuries to come.

Our strategy to grow The Permanent Fund has been simple. We have largely worked with local individuals wishing to leave lasting legacies of giving in the community they call home. You can establish a named fund now that becomes part of The Permanent Fund for as little as $10,000, paid at the rate of $2,000 per year for 5 years. Or you can leave a planned gift of any kind and size to The Permanent Fund from your estate. In either case, you may ask the Community Foundation to deploy the philanthropy from your gift in a specific field of interest, or you may leave it undesignated for optimum flexibility over time.

Help shape the future of our region. Give to The Permanent Fund for Northern Virginia.

SHAPE OF THE REGION CONFERENCE

The Community Foundation for Northern Virginia co-hosted the inaugural Shape of the Region conference in February 2018 with the Northern Virginia Chamber of Commerce to a sold-out crowd in Tysons Corner.

“In 2016, the Washington Regional Association of Grantmakers and our membership of foundation CEOs and trustees started a learning journey called ‘Putting Racism on the Table.’ We recognized that for too long philanthropy had been using essentially the same interventions to address societal problems. We felt that structural racism, in particular, and implicit bias, both long embedded in our country, were factors that had to be acknowledged, understood, and addressed to change our region’s, and our country’s, future. I greatly appreciated the chance to share our work on this critical topic at the Shape of the Region Conference.”

— Tamara Copeland, President of WRAG & Panelist at the Shape of the Region Conference

“Northern Virginia Community College’s (NOVA’s) collaboration with Amazon Web Services’ AWS Educate program to launch the cloud associate degree is setting the bar on public private collaborations to prepare the emerging workforce for tech jobs. NOVA’s history of ground-breaking leadership in the tech space, including their work with Amazon on an apprenticeship program for military veterans, their highly successful cyber security program, and their seamless transfer agreement with George Mason University, made our decision to work with them on this degree program an easy one. We believe that NOVA is at the vanguard of the modern community, vocational, and technical colleges - institutions that are exceedingly responsive to industry demand and capable of widening and diversifying the tech talent pipeline. Thanks to the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia for sharing these ideas more broadly.”

– Ken Eisner, Senior Manager, Worldwide Education Programs and Global Lead, AWS Educate at Amazon Web Services
Panelist, 2018 Shape of the Region Conference

Attendees included people from the government, social, and private sectors of our community. Keynote speakers included Richard Reeves, Senior Fellow of Economic Studies and Co-Director of the Center on Children and Families at the Brookings Institution, and Michael Cassidy, President & CEO, Commonwealth Institute.

The conference focused on opportunity and inequality, highlighting both national and local data that documents the ever-growing gap between the have and the have nots and our shrinking middle class. While calling out several societal structures that contribute to if not cause wealth inequality in our region and beyond, the conference also provided core strategies for addressing them. These strategies included raising consciousness around the devastating impact of structural racism and implicit bias, encouraging private sector employers to offer internships, apprenticeships, and skills-based training to our recently immigrated youth, and a simple but powerful suggestion to “take someone else’s kid to work” to provide an eye opening opportunity for those who would otherwise not have it.

“With a full one half of all children between the ages of 0-18 in Northern Virginia now living in immigrant families, there is no more important conversation for Northern Virginia. Our private sector needs a much larger skilled workforce, and our newly immigrated children and youth are eager to learn the very skills that are most required. We can all play a role in brokering this supply and demand, in growing opportunity for those who both want and need it, and in helping to build a community that works for everyone,” said Eileen Ellsworth, President and CEO of the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia.

THE OPPORTUNITY INDEX FOR NORTHERN VIRGINIA

In February of 2018 the Community Foundation launched The Opportunity Index for Northern Virginia. Comprised of 29 key indicators reflecting our region's economy, community health, civic life, and educational outcomes, The Opportunity Index will be updated annually by the Community Foundation to track changes and produce trend lines over time, advancing an ongoing, common understanding of the needs, social dynamics, and changing social and economic landscape in Northern Virginia.

We launched The Opportunity Index in 2018 as a gift to our community in celebration of the Community Foundation's 40th anniversary. It is displayed in dashboard format from the Community Foundation's website at www.cfnova.org/opportunityindex, and as such, is offered as a free and open source of data and information to our region and beyond.

Data in the Opportunity Index is demographically, jurisdictionally, ethnically and racially disaggregated. For example, with one or two clicks, you can understand what medium household income in Northern Virginia disaggregate by race looks like. You can compare the number of 3 and 4 year olds enrolled in preschool in Fairfax, Arlington, Prince William and Loudoun Counties over time. You can display the growing rates of income inequality in the US as a whole compared to the City of Alexandria. It is a rich, responsive, and easy to use online tool that helps shine a light on the very reasons why some people in Northern Virginia have more opportunity than others.

While our region has many advantages, poverty as a percentage of our total population is growing and school aged poverty is on the rise. Today, nearly 400,000 of our neighbors live at or below 200% of the Federal Poverty Level. There are a growing number of families who lack access to affordable housing and educational opportunities for their children. In addition, our region's demographics are rapidly changing with 47% of all children in Northern Virginia now living in immigrant households. People of color make up 48% of our residents, up from 35% in 2000, and there is a widening income gap between individuals of varying racial and ethnic backgrounds.

It is our deepest desire that the data and information in The Opportunity Index for Northern Virginia will serve as a critical resource for community knowledge, strategic giving, and targeted community action, now and for many years to come.

“As an immigrant living in Fairfax County, I’m amazed at the rapid pace of demographic changes happening all around us. As a state legislator, the work I do in Richmond must take into consideration these changes so that our policies and regulations accurately reflect the priorities of Northern Virginia. Unfortunately, there are not many sources of information to help me assess these trends, especially relating to the economic disparities among racial or immigrant groups. The Opportunity Index is a comprehensive resource for both policymakers and the community at large to understand the needs of our region so that we can provide public and philanthropic resources efficiently to those who need them the most. I’m grateful that the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia created this valuable and unique tool for us.”

— Mark L. Keam, Virginia House of Delegates, 35th District

Special thanks go to our Opportunity Index partners, the Commonwealth Institute for Fiscal Analysis, a nonprofit think-tank that provides credible, independent, and accessible information and analyses of fiscal and economic issues, and Paul and Julia Leslie of Fairfax, Virginia for their generous 2018 sponsorship of The Opportunity Index for Northern Virginia.

“The Community Foundation for Northern Virginia is a great organization. My clients are aware of what the foundation does for the local communities and providing assistance to those who are in need. This makes it an easy “sell” to them when discussing charitable gifting and organizations to gift to. The Community Foundation for Northern Virginia is always part of these discussions.”

GRANT FROM THE INNOVATION FUND

In March of 2018, the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia awarded a $25,000 grant from the Innovation Fund endowment for the Northern Virginia Community College Adult Career Pathway Program.

“The Adult Career Pathways (ACP) Program has been working diligently to provide ACP students with a support system designed to assist them with navigating the various pathways to a successful career. This includes providing opportunities for adults to succeed in their career endeavors through holistic approaches and resources designed to assist them in earning a certificate, degree or other credential that may help them secure a better job with a path toward advancement and/or greater economic security. Since being awarded the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia grant, ACP students have been able to achieve an array of both academic and career endeavors.

– A’Lelianne Warren, Ph.D. Coordinator, Adult Career Pathways Program

Northern Virginia Community College used the grant to defray costs associated with attaining industry certifications, to provide emergency funding for students who experience financial need for them to complete a course, and to provide resume writing and interview skills development for ACP students.

The ACP program partners with regional nonprofits who seek to help low-income adults attain self-sufficiency. All NOVA students enrolled in the ACP program are referred by local nonprofits such as Homestretch, Inc. and others, to receive training to improve their technology skills. The ACP program also provides students interested in STEM programs with assistance in enrolling at NOVA, applying for financial aid, preparing for college placement tests, identifying career goals and pathways, developing an individual plan of education or training and troubleshooting academic issues.

INNOVATION BREAKFASTS

The Community Foundation presented two Innovation Breakfasts during the year that engaged our community in a continuing discussion of the intersection of philanthropy and economic growth in our region.

SEPTEMBER 14, 2017: High Skills, High Demand, High Wage – Skills-Based Education Comes of Age

Moderated by Linda Odorisio, Managing Director, Haverford Partners, the September 2017 Innovation Breakfast featured a panel consisting of Beth Downey, Coordinator of Career and Technical Education for Fairfax County Public Schools, Miguel Gómez-Ibáñez, President of The North Bennet Street School in Boston, MA, Basim Mansour, President of Michael & Son, Inc., and Dr. R. Scott Ralls, President of Northern Virginia Community College. Our distinguished panelists discussed the growing need for skills-based technical education that prepares our workforce for today's high skill, high paying jobs, and philanthropy's role in creating greater opportunity for the hard to employ segment of our workforce to participate in the region's burgeoning economy.

“The approach to employment and careers is always evolving and now there’s a need for skilled education more than ever. As the demand for certified technicians in our industry continues to grow, we’re proud to create opportunities to learn a highly skilled trade through our technical academy that provides anyone who’s willing to learn a very rewarding career. I was glad to join the Community Foundation’s panel to discuss the importance of training our future workforce.”

– Basim Mansour, CEO, Michael & Son,
Panelist, September 2017 Innovation Breakfast

“I have been involved with the Community Foundation for Northern Virginia since 2004. Having witnessed that organization’s positive impact on the community and the region wide credibility it has earned over the years, my decision to permanently endow a fund for the environment at the Community Foundation was an easy choice. I know my gift to the Community Foundation establishing the Environment Fund will be well managed for permanency and will continue to improve the natural environment of our community for decades to come.”

— Anonymous Donor to the Environment Fund

ENVIRONMENT FUND

MAY 10, 2018: Changing the Frame on Green Energy

Thanks to a generous gift of $500,000 from an anonymous donor, the Community Foundation recently established The Environment Fund to protect, restore and improve the natural environment of Northern Virginia. Its launch was announced at the May 2018 Innovation Breakfast at which a panel of experts discussed Green Energy initiatives and opportunities to implement them in our region. The keynote speaker was Sanjiv Mahan, President of WGL Energy. Robert Lazaro, Executive Director, Northern Virginia Regional Commission, Ruth Ann Norton, President & CEO, Green & Healthy Homes Initiative, Karen Schaufeld, Founder, Powered by Facts, and Delegate Rip Sullivan, VA State Delegate, 48th District joined us on the panel. WGL Energy donated carbon offsets to counterbalance conference emissions from energy use at this event.

The first grant from The Environment Fund for $25,000 was awarded to the Foundation for Fairfax County Public Schools in support of a program called Get2Green, the environmental stewardship program for the County’s School System.

2017 COMMUNITY LEADERSHIP award

PRESENTED TO MARK AND BRENDA MOORE

The Community Foundation's Community Leadership Award is presented annually for outstanding community service and dedication to improving the quality of life for all Northern Virginians. At the 2017 Raise the Region Gala, this prestigious award went to Mark and Brenda Moore.

As passionate philanthropists, Mark and his wife Brenda formed the Mark and Brenda Moore Family Foundation in 2010. The organization maxim, "establishing roots and stretching wings," honors their parents and provides a legacy for their children to continue its good work. They are champions of advancements in health care, education, music and the arts, and Christian evangelism.

The Moore's are founding donors for the Smithsonian's National Museum of African American History and Culture. They are also members of the Directors Circle for the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater as well as patrons of the Kennedy Center and Wolf Trap National Park for the Performing Arts. They served as the co-chairs for INOVA Hospital Gala weekends in 2013 and 2014, as well as Mount Vernon Hospital's Steering Committee for expansion. The five-story expansion facility opened in the fall of 2014 and was named the Mark and Brenda Moore Patient Tower. They are also Patron Supporters for the Hopkins House Early Childhood Learning Center in Alexandria, Virginia. Mark and Brenda are servant leaders for the Youth Ministry and The Evangelism Ministry at Antioch Baptist Church in Fairfax.

Mark has over 30 years of operational and financial experience, where he oversaw engineering, operations and finance. During his career he helped to raise $2 billion in public and private capital. He was the Chief Operating Officer, Executive Vice President and owner of Segovia Inc. that provided global IP services to the Department of Defense.

Mark currently serves on the boards of INOVA, the Kennedy Centers' National Symphony Orchestra, The Apollo Theater, the American Heart Association, Mount Vernon Hospital Quality Board, Hopkins House Fund Board and the John Leland Center for Theological Studies. In 2017, he published a book, A Stroke of Faith, that tells the story of Mark's remarkable recovery from suffering two strokes in 2007 and depicts how he moved from acceptance to surrender, from hope to faith, in the wake of tragedy.

Brenda is a retired Registered Nurse. She enjoyed a professional career in obstetrics, medicine, pediatrics, and recruiting for more than 20 years. She currently sits on the Inova Health Foundation Board, the Nursing Philanthropy Council, and the Patient Experience Advisory Committee for INOVA Health System. She also supports several other causes such as: INOVA's Life With Cancer and Hopkins House Early Childhood Learning Center, in Alexandria, Virginia as a Trustee Board member.

Brenda is also a volunteer and writing coach for the Posse Foundation's D.C. chapter – an organization which helps send urban scholars to unlikely partner colleges and universities all over the U.S., allowing them to become visible leaders on their campuses and throughout their careers.

SUPPORT THE COMMUNITY FOUNDATION FOR NORTHERN VIRGINIA

Our donors care deeply about Northern Virginia. Often, they have made their homes here, their wealth here. Their children have attended our excellent local schools. They love this area and want to see it grow and thrive.

The Community Foundation for Northern Virginia offers inexpensive, easy-to-use charitable giving options. Through donor advised funds, planned giving, and philanthropic advising, we help local donors give to local causes without the expense and work of running their own private foundations.

Your philanthropy, your way

There are many ways to realize your personal philanthropic goals through the Community Foundation.

Open a DONOR ADVISED FUND to make grants to organizations you care about. Join a GIVING CIRCLE with like-minded individuals to make a collective difference for neighbors in need. Support critical needs here at home through the COMMUNITY INVESTMENT FUNDS grant cycle. Help seed innovation with a gift to the INNOVATION FUND. Or make a current or planned gift to the PERMANENT FUND FOR NORTHERN VIRGINIA and leave a lasting legacy of giving that will help shape the future of the region.

“Living in an area of the country seemingly so rich in resources, we were surprised to learn about the tremendous need that exists right here at home. Early on, our giving consisted primarily of writing checks to large, national non-profits. Although the work of these non-profits is worthy and addresses issues that we are passionate about, we did not truly understand how our dollars were being utilized. With Bruce growing up in the Prince William County area and knowing we would be raising our children in Northern Virginia, we decided we wanted to make more thoughtful choices about giving in our own community. This led us to the Community Foundation where we opened a donor advised fund. Housing our donor advised fund at the Community Foundation has allowed us to tap into the knowledge of staff to identify local nonprofits that are doing work that match our philanthropic ideals. In addition to our own personal giving, the Community Foundation educated us about the existence of the Giving Circle of HOPE, a collective philanthropic group that is a component fund of the Community Foundation. The Giving Circle of HOPE has allowed us to become connected to the needs within our community on an even deeper level. What we particularly love about being involved with the giving circle is the ability to see the impact that grants, funded through collective giving, make by receiving annual feedback about these projects. Giving through our donor advised fund, and also through giving circle, has allowed us to meet those involved in the non profit community in our area and to see our philanthropy in action.”
